Adobe PDF

- OnSong was designed for use with text-based formats
- We provide external formats like PDF for convenience
- You will want to convert to text-based chord charts
- PDF files can be very troublesome
- Files can contain pictures, text or graphics
- Very difficult to derive meaning from digital prints
- Large or complex files can crash OnSong

Conversion Toolbar

- Tap on the “Convert File” button
- Review the conversions
- If you don’t like the conversion, “Revert”
- You can toggle between text and imported files
- OnSong remembers both text and imported versions

Scanned Music

- Many of us have paper-based workflows
- You may want to scan your music into OnSong
- Scanning can create very large files that can slow OnSong
- Scan at 100 DPI grayscale for best results
- If typed music, try using the OCR text conversion

Expectations

- Songs render using the built-in viewer and scroll vertically
- Use imported files only until you have time to convert them
- This will require work to convert your music to digital
- You will need to finesse the chord charts to work properly
- You should consider converting on a computer for faster editing
- Having a text-based library of chords is well-worth the time
